DEPLORABLE TRAGEDY

Fred Daughtrey Shot and Killed by James Herron--One of County's Best Citizens.

The shocking news of the shooting by James Herron, at Herron Bros' store on Christmas day of Fred Daughtrey reached here by telephone soon after it happened, and before his friends could even make arrangements to go to the scene of the encounter, a second message conveyed the sadder news of his death. Daughtrey only lived thirty minutes after the shooting, the shot taking effect in the main artery just below the heart. Immediately after the shooting Daughtrey sat down on the porch in front of the store, and called some friends to him and he was put into a buggy and taken home, but died soon after reaching there and before any medical assistance arrived. He was beyond earthly help however even if a physician could have been obtained.

Herron, who did the killing, went to the river and crossed to Illinois as he feared violence at the hands of Daughtrey's friends who were enraged at what they characterized a cold blooded murder. Sheriff Flansburg and deputy J. A. Farmer, went to the scene of the killing, and Herron agreed to return and surrender to them if given protection, which was guaranteed to him. He was brought in Saturday the day after the killing, and given a preliminary hearing. He waived examination and was bound over to the grand jury without bail. Immediately afterward his attorneys, James & James, filed a motion asking that he be taken to Henderson for safe keeping as their client feared violence at the hands of a mob. Judge Blackburn ordered the prisoner taken to the Henderson county jail. Deputies Pickens and Farmer left on the afternoon that day (Dec. 26th) with him and delivered him to the jailer of Henderson county. Nothing which has ever happened in the county is more deplored.

Herron, who did the shooting, belongs to a family of prominence and wealth. Their business house is in the northern part of the county where the killing occurred, and has always enjoyed a fine patronage, and was recognized as a great convenience to the neighborhood and that such a lamentable tragedy should be enacted there, was unexpected and deeply regretted by the friends of both parties.

Daughtrey, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Daughtrey, leaves a young wife and child. His wife was Miss Lilly Franklin, Dr. W. T. and James Daughtrey, of Missouri, and John Daughtrey, Uniontown, are brothers. Herron is unmarried, and one report is that the trouble came up in a dispute over a young lady to whom he was paying some attention.

Morris & Yates Wins Prize.

Morris & Yates, the great main street grocery firm, surpassed all previous years in their sales on sugar last year, which reached the enormous total of 181 barrels, about 60,000 pounds or 5000 a month, or 200 pounds per day. In dollars and cents the exact amount sold, was $3208.50 which almost equaled in value the flour they sold, the total of which was $3685.98 over $300.00 per month or about 60 barrels a month, over two barrels a day every day in the year.

NEW YEAR'S RECEPTION

Given at Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Gray's Residence Great Pleasure to Marion.

The New Year's Reception given last Friday afternoon from two till six at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Gray, on the corner of Main and Depot Streets was (in its delightfully pleasant associations and memories of the past and of friends now gone to distant climes and those who have crossed the dark river) the peer of any previous similar gathering.

Many were the beautiful women, rosybud girls, and handsome men gathered there, the beauty and civility of this city, which can boast proudly of the attainments of her students of the arts, sciences and literature.

The Chatauqua, Literary and Scientific Circle has done more than any other club or organization to broaden the minds, strengthen the character, and widen the scope of usefulness of our womanfolk.

Their studies have been along the deepest lines and the subjects handled, and may we not say mastered, are such as would enlist the attention of the brightest minds of the nation or age, and in bringing together the townfolk to commune thus happily once a year they are only further proving that they are really the guardian angels of the town, seeking only to better those they come in contact with and endeavoring to scatter sunshine and love in all pathways.

The writer wishes for them all long life and as much of the joy and as little of the sorrow, of this old world as it is ever allotted to the best of its creatures.

The club was organized in 1889, and has the following honored names enrolled on its escutcheon.

STUDENT SMITH TURNS UP ALIVE

Makes Two Statement Concerning His Departure From Lexington.

Owensboro, Ky., Jan. 1.--It is a remarkable story told by Willis Smith former student of the University of Kentucky, who disappeared from Lexington on Sept. 22 and arrived in Owensboro Monday evening, Dec. 30. He declared he was kidnapped in the rear yard of a boarding house in Lexington by four men and placed in a box car after being drugged.

When he regained consciousness, he was turned over to six other men, he says, who took him to a cave in the northwest part of Wisconsin where he was held captive until Monday night of this week, when he made his escape. He ran and walked fifty miles to the railroad station, caught a freight train and arrived in Owensboro this evening.

He says the men would not tell him why he was being held.

He is the son of Rev. Willis G. Smith of Melrose, N. M.

Upon reaching Louisville, Smith repudiated his first story.

He now says he left Lexington on account of the activities of hazers. He said he had received threatening letters, evidently from students, and feared he might kill somebody if they attacked him. For that reason, he claims he ran away from school and had been working in a Wisconsin lumber camp.

R. W. Wilson, Octogenarian.

Mr. R. W. Wilson passed the 79th milestone last Tuesday Dec. 29th, and is now hale and hearty and in his eightieth year. Mr. Wilson spends his time quietly in reading and rest at the home of his daughter Mrs. Marshall Jenkins, in this city. On the date named above many relatives, old friends and neighbors called to felicitate him on the happy occasion and to wish him many returns of the day and to bring gifts.

The only attendants being Miss Virginia Butler, the bride's sister, a maid of honor and Mr. Eugene Gregory as best man.
